

Doubles Teams Tie in Handball

All-U Players To Finish Contest Next Tuesday

After two torrid games, the semi-final match in the all-U handball tournament between Fred Nicholas and Romeo Rodriguez, and Marty Ziff and Bob Pofcher, was called a draw, and will be replayed next Tuesday.

Nicholas and Rodriguez squeezed through a 21-20 win in the first game, but Ziff and Pofcher captured the second game after a tough fight, 21-19.

The duos will fight it out Tuesday night at 7:30 for the right to meet Al Mahaffay and Alex Atanasoff in the finals.

The match was an evenly divided affair throughout. In the first game, the teams traded score for score until it was tied at 19 all. Then Nicholas and Rodriguez sewed up the game with effective placement shots.

The second encounter was almost an exact facsimile of the first. Pofcher and Ziff led 15-12, when the opposing team staged a rally that netted seven points, and brought the score to 19-15. Then the underdog duo duplicated its opponent's feat to tie the score at 19-19.

After exchanging serves several times, Pofcher and Ziff finally pulled out and captured the second game.

The playoff Tuesday night will necessitate shifting the date of the finals to some later time.
