Fountains of Hope

Public Counsel's executive committee hosted a special reception honoring Dan Grunfeld, the organization's former president and CEO, for his dedication to the public interest. A trio of water fountains fashioned from natural basalt columns were installed at the building's entrance to commemorate his decade of leadership. Grunfeld left Public Counsel in August 2007 to become deputy chief of staff of policy for Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa.

Public Counsel board member and former chairman Roman Silberfeld, managing partner of the Los Angeles office of Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi, left, with Public Counsel founder, attorney Fredrick Nicholas of the Hapsmith Co.
